THE TOMPKINS COUNTY JUNIOR
SULKY RAKE.
Independent Self-Tilting, Independent Hand-Dumping,
The only Completely Controllable Self-Tilting Rake.
A child can operate it with either dump First-class in every particular, best of teeth, best of material, good workmanship, well finished, capacity for a great variety of work Has many splendid points. The more it is used the better it is liked Well worthy the attention of farmers and dealers.
Its teeth are spring steel, tempered in oil, can be raised by the foot-dump to any desired height from the ground, carried any distance and dropped at any instant, same as is done by hand.
It is the only completely controllable self-operating, or wheel-discharging rake.
No unreliable gears, ratchets, clutches, springs, rim-brakes, nor other flimsy traps to get out of repair. Any blacksmith can replace any iron in the rake that is accidentally broken.
Its self-discharging device has no lost motion, and is remarkably simple. It never fails to operate, neither does it conflict with the hand-dump.
It can be opened to the foot-shaft, leaving both hands free for driving, yet it is a complete hand dumping Rake, at the will of the driver—thereby allowing of all agreeable change.
It can be discharged rapidly and easily, by either hand or foot.

A Page from History.
In the spring of 1862 the subscriber, while on a fishing excursion with Christopher Columbus, on the banks of the Penobscot, meandered up Hammon Street, and when opposite the Jail conceived he would go no further in that direction, so plucking his trusty jack knife from the folds of his togs, he whittled out the number 36, and hung it on a tree, and there he has been ever since, ready to make or repair to the order of any one, be it Chippewa Indian, the dusky African, or one of Cain's posterity. Undoubtedly he ought to have done this, but with his native impetuosity his reckless daring his confidence in his own regiment, which had never failed him and his love of public approval, Custer could no more help charging this Indian camp than he could help charging just so many buffaloes He had never learned to spell the word defeat," he knew nothing but success and if he had met the Indians on the open plain success would undoubtedly have been his, for no body of Indians could stand the charge of the 7th Cavalry When it swept over the plains like a whirlwind. But in the Mauvaises Terres and the Narrow Valley of the Big Horn he did not get a fair fight
With all his bravery and self reliance, his love of independent action Custer was more dependent than most men on the kind approval of his fellows He was even vain, he loved display in dress and action He would pay $40 for a pair of troop boots to wear on parade, and have everything else in keeping On the Yellowstone expedition he wore a bright red shirt, which made him the best mark for a rifle of any man in the regiment I remonstrated with him for this reckless exposure but found an appeal to his wife more effectual, and on the next campaign he wore a buckskin suit He formerly wore his hair very long, letting it fall in a heavy mass upon his shoulders but cut it off before going out on the Black Hills, producing quite a change in his appearance. But it was and ambitious Custer had none of those great vices which are so common and so distressing in the army. He never touched liquor in any form, he did not smoke or chew or gamble In early life he had been addicted to some of these habits, but was entirely won from them by his loving, purifying influence of his devoted wife. He was a man of great energy and remarkable endurance He could outride almost any man in his regiment I believe, if it were put to a test His men had many nicknames for him, which celebrated this hardihood When he sat out to reach a certain point at a certain time, you could be sure that he would be there if he killed every horse in the command He was sometimes too severe in forcing marches, but he never seemed to get tired himself, and he never expected his men to be so In cutting our way through to the Black Hills, I have often seen him take an ax and work as hard as any of the pioneers He was never idle when he had a pretext for doing anything Whatever he did he did thoroughly He would overshoot the mark, but never fall short. He fretted in garrison sometimes, because it was too inactive, but he found an outlet here for his energies in writing articles for the press He made some enemies in the army by the freedom with which he wrote and criticised I think it was not Custer's habit to add to his fame by disparaging the reputation of others As he loved praise himself, so he liked to award it to others when it was due
He had a remarkable memory. He could recall in its proper order every detail of any action, no matter how remote, of which he was a participant. He was rather verbose in writing, and had no gift as a speaker but his writing interested the masses from their close attention to details, and from his facility with the pen as with the sword in bringing the thing to a climax. As he was apt to overdo in action, so he was apt to exaggerate in statement, not from any willful disregard of the truth, but because he saw things bigger than they really were He did not distort the truth, he magnified it. He was a natural optimist. He took rose-colored views of everything, even of the miserable lands of the Northern Pacific Railroad. He had a historical memory, but not a historical mind. He was not a philosopher; he could reel off facts from his mind better than he could analyze or mass them He was not a student, nor a deep thinker. He loved to take part in events rather than to brood over them. He was fond of fun, genial and pleasant in his manner, a loving and devoted husband. It was my privilege to spend two weeks in his family at one time, and I know he was happy in the intimate social relations he sustained to his family circle. He was a kind father, and his children idolized him. He was generous to a fault and more than once has your correspondent shared his tent and his mess when prevented from reaching his own quarters He was unmarried
Lieut Algernon S Smith was in command of Company K, one of the finest companies in the regiment. He was formerly on Gen Custer's staff and was an excellent commissary. He leaves a wife, but no children
Capt Geo W Bates was one of the best hearted men in the regiment He had had a long experience as a cavalry officer and knew every detail of the service He was a good companion at the camp-fire and a brave man in the field He leaves a wife and two children
Lieut McIntosh also married was a half-breed who had received a fine education His father was a member of the Hudson Bay Company He knew nothing of Indian life in its wilder forms except as he met it while serving with his regiment

REMINISCENCES OF CUSTER.

HIS BRAVERY AND DASH—COURAGE AND ENDURANCE—LOVE OF DISPLAY—HIS SOCIAL RELATIONS—HIS COMPANIONS IN DEATH

[From the New York Tribune]

Sir I accompanied Gen Custer on the Yellowstone and Black Hills expedition. He was a born cavalryman He was never more in his element than when mounted on Dandy his favorite horse, and riding at the head of his regiment He once said to me, I would rather be a private in the cavalry than a line officer in the infantry" He was the personification of bravery and dash His most bitter enemies never accused him of cowardice It he had only added discretion to his valor he would have been a perfect soldier His impetuosity very often ran away with his judgment. He was impatient of control He liked to act independently of others and take all the risk and all the glory on himself He frequently got himself into trouble by assuming more authority than really belonged to his rank It was so on the Yellowstone expedition where he came into collision with Gen Stanley, his superior officer, and was placed under arrest and compelled to ride in the rear of his column for two or three days until Gen Rosser, who fought against Custer in the Shenandoah Valley during the war, but was then acting as an engineer of the Northern Pacific Railroad succeeded in effecting a reconciliation Custer and Stanley afterward got on very well and perhaps the quarrel would never have occurred if the two generals had been left alone to themselves without the intervention of camp gossips, who sought to foster the traditional jealousy between infantry and cavalry For Stanley was the soul of generosity and Custer did not really mean to be ungenerous, but from the time when he entered West Point to the day when he fell on Big Horn he was accustomed to take just as much liberty as he was entitled to.

For this reason Custer worked most easily and effectually when under general orders, when not hampered by special restriction or his success made dependent on anybody else Gen Terry understood his man when, in the order directing him to march up the Rosebud he very liberally left the Department Commander places too much confidence in your zeal, energy and ability to wish to impose upon you precise orders which might hamper your action when nearly in contact with the enemy" But Gen Terry did not make this mistake and Custer if he thought he would wait for Gibbon's support before attacking an Indian camp Undoubtedly he ought to have done this, but with his native impetuosity his reckless daring his confidence in his own regiment, which had never failed him and his love of public approval, Custer could no more help charging this Indian camp than he could help charging just so many buffaloes He had never learned to spell the word defeat," he knew nothing but success and if he had met the Indians on the open plain success would undoubtedly have been his, for no body of Indians could stand the charge of the 7th Cavalry When it swept over the plains like a whirlwind. But in the Mauvaises Terres and the Narrow Valley of the Big Horn he did not get a fair fight

With all his bravery and self reliance, his love of independent action Custer was more dependent than most men on the kind approval of his fellows He was even vain, he loved display in dress and action He would pay $40 for a pair of troop boots to wear on parade, and have everything else in keeping On the Yellowstone expedition he wore a bright red shirt, which made him the best mark for a rifle of any man in the regiment I remonstrated with him for this reckless exposure but found an appeal to his wife more effectual, and on the next campaign he wore a buckskin suit He formerly wore his hair very long, letting it fall in a heavy mass upon his shoulders but cut it off before going out on the Black Hills, producing quite a change in his appearance. But it was and ambitious Custer had none of those great vices which are so common and so distressing in the army. He never touched liquor in any form, he did not smoke or chew or gamble In early life he had been addicted to some of these habits, but was entirely won from them by his loving, purifying influence of his devoted wife. He was a man of great energy and remarkable endurance He could outride almost any man in his regiment I believe, if it were put to a test His men had many nicknames for him, which celebrated this hardihood When he sat out to reach a certain point at a certain time, you could be sure that he would be there if he killed every horse in the command He was sometimes too severe in forcing marches, but he never seemed to get tired himself, and he never expected his men to be so In cutting our way through to the Black Hills, I have often seen him take an ax and work as hard as any of the pioneers He was never idle when he had a pretext for doing anything Whatever he did he did thoroughly He would overshoot the mark, but never fall short. He fretted in garrison sometimes, because it was too inactive, but he found an outlet here for his energies in writing articles for the press He made some enemies in the army by the freedom with which he wrote and criticised I think it was not Custer's habit to add to his fame by disparaging the reputation of others As he loved praise himself, so he liked to award it to others when it was due

He had a remarkable memory. He could recall in its proper order every detail of any action, no matter how remote, of which he was a participant. He was rather verbose in writing, and had no gift as a speaker but his writing interested the masses from their close attention to details, and from his facility with the pen as with the sword in bringing the thing to a climax. As he was apt to overdo in action, so he was apt to exaggerate in statement, not from any willful disregard of the truth, but because he saw things bigger than they really were He did not distort the truth, he magnified it. He was a natural optimist. He took rose-colored views of everything, even of the miserable lands of the Northern Pacific Railroad. He had a historical memory, but not a historical mind. He was not a philosopher; he could reel off facts from his mind better than he could analyze or mass them He was not a student, nor a deep thinker. He loved to take part in events rather than to brood over them. He was fond of fun, genial and pleasant in his manner, a loving and devoted husband. It was my privilege to spend two weeks in his family at one time, and I know he was happy in the intimate social relations he sustained to his family circle. He was a kind father, and his children idolized him. He was generous to a fault and more than once has your correspondent shared his tent and his mess when prevented from reaching his own quarters He was unmarried

Lieut Algernon S Smith was in command of Company K, one of the finest companies in the regiment. He was formerly on Gen Custer's staff and was an excellent commissary. He leaves a wife, but no children

Capt Geo W Bates was one of the best hearted men in the regiment He had had a long experience as a cavalry officer and knew every detail of the service He was a good companion at the camp-fire and a brave man in the field He leaves a wife and two children

Lieut McIntosh also married was a half-breed who had received a fine education His father was a member of the Hudson Bay Company He knew nothing of Indian life in its wilder forms except as he met it while serving with his regiment

WHAT TO DO WITH SHEEP

There is some anxiety among sheep breeders to know what course to take with their sheep What shall we do with them? asks they. Our answer is, Take a conservative, steady course, pursue it steadily, do not be carried away with the cry of cheap wool, but aim to keep a flock of sheep on your farm There are many considerations in favor of keeping a few sheep on every farm They are good fertilizers, they afford some variety to farm life, they are food-producing animal, their wool always sells for cash at some price and they are easily handled and their product readily marketed. It is in June that about 700,000 will be paid to farmers of this state for their wool. This is just the season they want money to commence their farming. At this season they are busy, have a few days to market their wool and a little money, and this gives them a fair chance to sell at a good price. GOVERNOR CONNOR'S ACCEPTANCE.

Elsewhere our readers will find the straightforward, manly letter of our excellent Governor, Selden Connor, accepting the nomination of the Republicans of our good State for the office of Chief Magistrate for a second term. During his term of office, General Connor has been all that any citizen, unbiased by the most extreme partizan spirit, could desire our Governor to be. He has performed his duties with that spirit which characterizes a noble man, a good soldier, and a modest unassuming citizen of a well governed state. He is in full accord with the principles of the Republican party so clearly set forth in our National and State platforms, and the people know that in his hands the Governorship of Maine, is well vested. We commend his letter to a careful perusal.

MR. MADIGAN'S WITHDRAWAL.

We publish in another column the letter of Mr. Madigan, of Houlton, addressed "To the Democratic and Independent Electors of the Fourth District of Maine," declining a nomination as candidate for Representative to Congress, and this declination, or withdrawal is a most emphatic concession of the utter hopelessness of the Democratic candidacy, for Mr. Madigan has long aspired to a seat in Congress and were there at this time the faintest shadow of a possibility of his election, such is his aspiration for the position, he would never have surrendered his chances. He has kept the Convention back to examine all these chances and gives up only on the conviction that they are not worth considering, and that Mr. Pidwers, the Republican nominee, is sure of a large majority.

Mr. Madigan and his party are disappointed that no Republican issue has arisen, for they hoped by such an occurrence to receive very material aid. They are disappointed in seeing the party united and earnest against reinforcing the Confederate Congress, which is now a disgrace to the country. The Republicans are more than ever determined to sweep the districts, for the exhibitions of Democratic policy and malignity in Congress are convincing arguments against further trusting them with power. The late massacre at Hamburg, S. C., of which Governor Chamberlain so justly says:

"It presents a darker picture of human cruelty than the slaughter of Custer and his soldiers, for they were shot in open battle. The victims at Hamburg were murdered in cold blood after they had surrendered and were utterly defenceless. No occasion existed for causing the presence of a single armed citizen on the day of the massacre."

is but a beginning of the Democratic system for carrying elections in the South; it is a fair exposition of the sentiment which actuates the Democratic members of Congress, and the fair minded citizens of the Fourth District are not prepared just now to send such a man to Congress as will give his voice his sympathy and his vote to that side which Ben Hill, Tucker and others from Southern States so fully represent.

Mr. Madigan's letter virtually throws up the sponge for his party as well as himself and any nomination made by the Democracy now will be formal, as defeat is conceded in advance.

THE SOUTH CAROLINA MASSACRE.—The report of Attorney General Stone of South Carolina to Governor Chamberlain with regard to the massacre at Hamburg is published in the Columbia Union Herald. The most noteworthy points in the report are the statements that none of the negroes captured had arms in their hands; that the whites commenced the firing; that John Swaringen of Edgefield had charge of the prisoners; that the primary object of the whites was to disarm the militia, and that he recognizes General M. C. Butler as having been in command throughout. The same account as that already published of the origin of the difficulty is given. The report concludes as follows:—

"It may be possible that a careful judicial investigation may show some slight errors in some of the minor details stated in this report; but, making due allowance for such errors, the facts show the demand on the militia to give up their arms was made by persons without lawful authority to enforce such demand or to receive the arms had they been surrendered; that the attack on the militia to compel a compliance with this demand was without legal excuse or justification; and that after there had been some twenty or twenty-five prisoners captured and completely in the power of their captors, and without means of making further resistance, five of them were deliberately shot to death and three more severely wounded. It further appears that, not satisfied with these killings, their murderers, many of them sworn officers of the law, proceeded to the dwelling of Adam Cook, a peaceable citizen, and were only prevented from murdering the inhabitants of their own household by the interposition of a neighbor."

[From the Boston Advertiser.]

THE HAMBURG MASSACRE.

If the people of the South are sincerely wishing that the arguments upon the "bloody shirt" shall be ended, they are very careless in their conduct. The Hamburg massacre in South Carolina forces that issue. As long as Southern white men shoot down the colored citizens of the United States with a malignant barbarity hardly equalled by the Sioux of the western plains or the Turks of Europe, the people of this country will not cease to consider that one of the things to be taken into account at every election is the protection of the right to life of the freedmen. We are as anxious that the "bloody shirt" should be buried as any one can be; but it is of no use to bury it, or to pretend that it has been buried, when on such insignificant pretexts as are furnished in this case a dozen men may be murdered for an afternoon's sport. It is especially alarming that this affair has happened in South Carolina. It cannot be attributed to the exasperation produced by bad government. Governor Chamberlain has been strictly just to both races, and nobody denies it. One of the signal acts of his administration was the disbandment of a company of negro militia that had abused its privileges of bearing arms. So unquestionably he would have disarmed the Hamburg company upon well-founded charges of wrongdoing. There were no such charges.

Two boys, under age, driving in a buggy on the Fourth of July, meet the company parading in the road, and with an insolence that is hardly conceivable insist that the company shall break ranks for them to pass through, although there is abundant room on either side. The fact that the company did open ranks to let them by, and did not urge their horse out of the way by pricking him with bayonets, is a proof that they were disposed to keep the peace. But one of the prigs of the buggy chose to consider himself insulted, and his father brought suit against the company for obstructing the highway. Before the suit is tried the country is raised for miles around, and, the "chivalry"—Heaven save the mark!—came into town armed to see that justice is done in a trial justice's court! The officers of the company, fearing for their lives, do not dare appear in court. The mob, in defiance of all right and law, then demand that the company shall surrender to them the arms which are the property of the State. Not a complaint to the governor, not a message to him, not a semblance of respect to constituted authority; nothing but lawless and defiant outrage. The boys said the captain of the company was insolent. Insolent, forsooth! It is beyond possibility that anything he could say or do would match their insolence.

Let us state the case in a way which will make its enormity plain, perhaps even to a South Carolinian. They had a centennial celebration of the gallant defence of Fort Moultrie in Charleston on the 28th of last month. The militia companies of that city paraded on the occasion. Suppose that when the Washington Light Infantry, the company whose representatives have been twice entertained in this city, were drawn up in line on that day on Meeting street, between the Charleston Hotel and Mills House, two negro youths—we will suppose them to be sober, although this probably puts their case at great advantage as an illustration—had driven up in a buggy and demanded that the company should get out of their way! Does anybody suppose the negro youths would have escaped maltreatment, or, at the least, instant arrest and incarceration in jail? The supposed case is not a whit more insolent than the actual demand of the two youths of Hamburg. And what would have been thought if, because the Washington Light Infantry refused to yield the right of way, the colored people had mustered from all the seaboard, demanded of the company to surrender its arms (we know the company has no arms, existing simply as a charitable organization), and because it refused, besieged them in their armory, forced them to surrender, and after they had surrendered, and were held as prisoners unarmed and defenceless, had been wantonly murdered as were the negroes of Hamburg, and then the city had been pillaged by the assassins, drunk with stolen whiskey? We are forced to believe that under such circumstances the white people of the South would have insisted that "the bloody shirt" was a more pertinent campaign cry than civil-service reform or any other reform that did not remedy their especial grievance.

It is of no use to cover up such iniquity and make believe that it is not. While the South makes bloody shirts, the North must take notice of the fact. It is not our fault that the horrible story is true and must be told. But it is worth while to remember that, in the debate in Congress last Saturday on this affair, no Democratic member had a word of condemnation. Mr. Cox of New York was particularly grovelling in his effort to make light of it. Several things have been suggested to Governor Tilden, that he might treat of in his letter of acceptance, and so make points on Governor Hayes. We suggest that he tell us what he thinks ought to be done to the men who spent their Sunday morning of the 9th of July in Hamburg shooting negroes. There is no matter of reform on which the Democracy more needs to have its position defined than this. More negroes have been massacred in the South by members of the Democratic party within ten years than there have been men murdered by the Indians in the West; but the Democratic party wants the army withdrawn from the South entirely. Some Southern men and Southern papers profess to regret this occurrence. Possibly they do. We will believe they do when we see them active in detecting and convicting the youth of first families who engage in them. When a dozen men are hung in Edgefield jail-yard for the Hamburg murders, we will begin to have faith in their indignation. Better than that there will be an end of occasions for it.

Mr. Tilden's war record will not bear a very close inspection. Besides being one of the Committee who framed the famous peace-at-any-price resolution in the Democratic platform of 1864, he was Chairman of the New York Central Committee in the campaign, and was concerned in the arrangements for a Democratic mass meeting which took place at Syracuse on the 26th of October. The Central Committee, of which Mr. Tilden was chairman, prepared the transparencies for the procession, and among the mottoes selected were these choice bits of patriotism:

"American soil scourged by an unconditional despot in Abraham Lincoln."

"No more victims for slaughter pens. Not a man—not a dollar."

"If Seward 'touches his bell' again, the people will stretch his neck."

"The Constitution we will obey, but as history teaches, we will resist unto death."

"The people are ready to take the responsibility of the hour, and will resist unto death."

GOV. CONNOR'S LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE.

AUGUSTA, July 18, 1876.

Hon. W. M. Rust, President Republican State Convention, Belfast:

DEAR SIR:—In reply to your official notification of the action of that convention held at Bangor on the 22nd of June unanimously nominated me for re-election to the office of governor, I hereby signify my acceptance of the nomination and tender you my sincere thanks for the courteous terms in which you inform me of the action of the convention.

It is a source of the highest gratification to me that the people of the State who placed me in the position of honor I now hold, have, by their representatives, not only indicated their approval of the manner in which I have thus far performed my official duties by a re-nomination of so flattering a character, but have expressly declared it in a formal resolution. I hold their good words in grateful keeping as a high reward for conscientious aim and effort, and as a constant stimulus to faithful service, and I desire to make known to them, through you, my appreciation of the estimate they have been pleased to place upon my conduct of the trust committed to me.

The principles announced by the convention, and those referred to and adopted by it, have my unqualified concurrence. I am fully of the opinion that the traditional state policy, reaffirmed by the convention, could not be departed from without detriment to the material interests of the State and the happiness of the people. The articles of political belief proclaimed by the Republican National Convention, and accepted by the State Convention as a correct statement of the principles of the republican party, clearly set forth the many questions of great moment now confronting the people and imposing on them the grave responsibility of decision. Among them the declarations regarding the nature and functions of the national government are alone sufficient to give a distinctive and national character to that party. The supremacy of the nation is not laid down as a mere abstract proposition, but the argument is straightly drawn from it, that all the citizens of the Union are entitled to protection from the power to which their allegiance is primarily due. Add to these declarations the resolutions favoring the earliest practicable resumption of specie payment, against the dictation by Senators and Representatives of appointments to office, engaging to prosecute and punish all betrayals of official trust, recommending an amendment to the constitution of the United States forbidding the application of public funds to sectarian schools, demanding the dedication of the public domain to free homes for the people, declaring for an adjustment of the customs duties favorable to American labor, and the opinions pronounced by the convention upon other questions of public interest,—and the service which the republican party proposes to render the country is made apparent.

The fresh informing spirit and determination now animating the people and consolidating them as when they bore the Union through peril to safety, give unmistakable assurance that they will make these principles the living force of their government and thus enter upon the new century of the nation's existence with confidence that tranquillity, prosperity and happiness will prevail throughout the country.

Very respectfully yours,
SELDEN CONNOR.

MR. MADIGAN SHUNS DEFEAT.

To the Democratic and Independent Electors of the Fourth Congressional District of Maine:

GENTLEMEN—The reluctance with which I accepted last year's nomination has been well understood by you all, and I have not concealed from you the improbabilities of my being a candidate at the coming canvass.

I have been induced by the solicitation of many persons, to withhold up to the present, an absolute declination; but I feel it would be improper longer to delay it. Profoundly grateful therefore, for your unusually liberal and kindly support at the last election—so liberal and so kind that the remembrance of it will ever be cherished among the fondest of my recollections, I hereby decline a nomination for the current year, but as a fellow-worker with you, I shall give my hearty support to the nominee of your adoption.

Yours, most respectfully,
JAMES C. MADIGAN.

Houlton, July 13, 1876.

A SPECIMEN STATE.

As we are so often told now-a-days that wherever the Democrats have full control in the South everything is secure, it is interesting to have the opinion of the San Antonio Herald, a Democratic paper, as to the results of Democratic rule in Texas. The Herald says:

"In our Legislature the characteristic feature is waste and extravagance. Offices are multiplied, salaries increased, and the people's domain squandered in the most reckless manner; but the sacred trust—the school fund, amounting to $800,000—committed to their fiduciary care is also violently seized and appropriated to the payment of the mileage and per diem, and other expenses of this session of the Legislature, and to make good the deficit in the State Treasury, caused in part by the expenses incurred for the Constitutional Convention. Our State Government is a curse and our laws a mockery, and we call upon our people to rouse to action and apply the corrective. By the apathy of the State Government anarchy prevails and lawlessness and crime abound. The people must act in their own defence. The Governor and Legislature will not."

The country will not soon forget that when Gov. Tilden was notified of his nomination by the St. Louis Convention, he whispered to his friends that this was to be "an aggressive campaign." What he meant by that confidential communication was not fully understood, but the recent massacre at Hamburg, South Carolina, throws a flood of light upon it. The Democrats have declared their purpose to carry every Southern State for Tilden, and there is no longer any doubt as to the methods they will adopt to secure that result. It is to be "aggressive warfare." The leading men among the blacks are to be killed off, and the timid ones frightened into submission. This method of carrying on a campaign has succeeded so well in Georgia that in many places the colored people no longer take a part in an election. "Order reigns in Warsaw. The blacks no longer expect or demand their rights. The experience of the Georgians makes them valuable soldiers in this "aggressive campaign," and they were sent to the front in the opening battle of Hamburg. They shot down native citizens and legal voters of South Carolina on their own soil, bear their own names, and not content with this, mutilated the bodies of some of the slain.—Boston Traveller.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

FORTY FOURTH CONGRESS.—First Session.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, July 19

Mr Wright from the Committee on Claims reported adversely on a bill providing for the payment to the State of North Carolina certain money for cotton seized, and it was indefinitely postponed

Mr Cragin, from the Committee on Naval Affairs, reported favorably on the House bill in relation to the promotion of commodores on the retired list off the Navy Placed on the calendar

Mr Anthony submitted a resolution instructing the Committee on the Library to inquire into the expediency of obtaining the work of Count de Rochambeau now in possession of Marquis de Rochambeau, relating to our war for independence Agreed to

Mr Allison, from the Conference Committee on the Army Appropriation bill made a report, which was agreed to In submitting the report Mr Allison explained its provisions and said all matters relating to the reorganization of the Army were to be submitted to a commission to consist of two members of the Senate and two of the House, the Secretary of War and two army officers The House had receded from all its amendments relating to a reduction in organization and pay of the army The bill as it came from the House of Representatives appropriated $24,300 259, that amount was increased by the Senate $3 213 500 The Conference Committee had reduced the amendments of the Senate $1 492,193 leaving the total amount appropriated by the bill (if it should be passed) $26 069,066 or $1 364,000 less than appropriated by the Army bill of last year

Impeachment Proceedings

The legislative business was then suspended The Senate resumed consideration of the articles of impeachment against Belknap, late Secretary of War John S Evans was called and sworn Carpenter, of the counsel for the accused said Evans was now on the stand and if the managers desired to examine him, they could do so If not, the defense would insist upon their making a proper cross-examination

Manager McMahon said the managers would claim the right to call out on cross examination whatever was legitimate and proper in the case After further discussion Mr Conkling submitted the following

Ordered, That the managers proceed to examine the witness Evans, in chief, or should they decline to do so, the respondent may proceed to examine the witness in chief with the right to the managers to cross-examine him like any witness Agreed to

The witness was then examined by Manager McMahon and testified that he had been post-trader at Fort Sill since 1869, was removed on the 6th of March last and Rice and Byles of St. Louis appointed in his place Witness was first appointed upon recommendation of all the officers at the post When the law in regard to the appointment of post-traders was passed, witness came to Washington to seek reappointment, but the Secretary of War was in Keokuk First saw him in that city was introduced to him by Mr Peck and had a brief conversation with him, but the Secretary said he could not attend to any business until he returned to Washington When the Secretary returned witness saw him He said the papers of witness were satisfactory but he had promised the post to another person The Secretary said he did not know whether that person wanted to go to Fort Sill but that he would soon be in the city and witness could see him on the subject and might make some satisfactory arrangement Saw Marsh a day or two afterwards when he came to Washington He at first wanted $20 000 per annum for the post, but witness would not pay it Went to New York with Marsh and he finally agreed to take $12,000 for the post The agreement between Marsh and Evans was exhibited and identified by witness He further testified that Marsh came to his hotel in Washington to see him on the subject The total amount paid to Marsh up to November 30 1875 was $12 317

Witness in reply to questions said the Secretary of War never addressed any communication to him asking if he was to put Marsh Marsh had nothing invested in the concern, Marsh never told witness what he was going to do with the money witness paid him saw Belknap and asked if he could form some partnership with Marsh, Belknap said he could see Marsh in reference to it Marsh never told him that he divided with Belknap never paid Belknap a cent for the appointment

Regular Proceedings

The impeachment proceedings were temporarily suspended and the legislative business was resumed

Mr Windom from the Conference Committee on the sundry civil appropriation bill, submitted a report which he read

The report was agreed to—yeas 39, nays 12

Impeachment Proceedings.

The impeachment trial was then resumed and H T Crosby, Chief Clerk of the War Department, was recalled and testified

Major General W S Hancock was sworn and testified that he knew nothing to the discredit of General Belknap as Secretary of War, prior to this charge

Mr Carpenter announced that this closed the case for the defense

Manager McMahon stated that the managers had nothing to offer in rebuttal

Some discussion as to the summing up ensued and Mr. Conkling submitted an order that three managers and counsel may be heard in such order as they may arrange among themselves, The order of Mr. Conkling was agreed to and the Senate sitting as a court of impeachment adjourned until to-morrow

Legislative business was resumed, and the Senate at 5 15 adjourned

House.

Mr. Jencks of Pa., offered a resolution directing the Secretary of the Treasury to have a careful and exact survey made of the distances of lines of the Union and Central Roads, for which Government bonds were issued. Adopted

The report of the conference committee on the bill declaring forfeited to the United States certain Railroad lands in Kansas as was made by Goodin was agreed to

Mr. Morrison, of the Ways and Means reported a bill to amend the laws relating to the internal Revenue. Made a special order for the 23d of July.

Mr. Atkins, of Tenn., made a conference report on the army appropriation bill. The report was agreed to and the bill goes to the President for his signature

The House at 4 p'clock went into committee of the whole, Mr. Monroe of Ohio in the chair, on the bill for the protection of the Texas frontier.

Mr Tucker's substitute for the second section was rejected after some debate, and that offered by Mr. Banks was adopted The Committee rose and reported the bill to the House.

The Senate bill extending the duration of the Court of Commissioners of the Alabama claims until the first of January next, was passed.

The House proceeded to the consideration of the South Carolina contested election case. The unanimous report of the committee being that neither the sitting member (Mackey) nor the contestant (Hutto) is entitled to the seat. After by-speeches by Mackey in his own cause, and Thompson of Mass., in support of the committee's report it was agreed to without division.

The amendment to the first section adopted in committee yesterday, on motion of Mr. Hancock of Texas, providing that no part of the troops shall be taken from any State or service where the public interest requires their continuance, was rejected by a party vote—yeas 79, nays 98

Without disposing of the bill the House adjourned.

THE HAMBURG MASSACRE

Letter from Governor Chamberlain of South Carolina

We give below the full text of a letter written to United States Senator F J Robertson by Governor Chamberlain, of South Carolina in regard to the outrage at Hamburg in that State

STATE OF SOUTH CAROLINA
Executive Chamber,
Columbia, July 13 1876

Hon F J Robertson, United States Senator Washington D C

Dear Sir—Your request for a statement from me of the recent bloody affair at Hamburg, in this state was duly received I have waited before replying until official reports and statements should be received

There are now before me the official reports of the Attorney General and the Adjutant and Inspector General the testimony taken at the Coroner's inquest and the written statements of several other persons who were present and witnessed the whole or parts of the affair I will present to you as briefly as possible the leading facts as they appear from the evidences to which I have referred

The Story of the Affair

On the 4th of July past a company of the State militia (colored) were marching along one of the streets of Hamburg The street was over one hundred feet wide and the company was marching in columns of four While so marching they were met by two young white men in a buggy, who insisted on keeping their course in the street without regard to the movements of the military and drove against the head of the column, which thereupon halted Some parleying took place, which resulted in the company yielding, opening their ranks and allowing the young men to proceed on their course. On the following day the young men referred to took out warrants of arrest against some of the officers of the military company, who were brought before a trial justice for trial

The White Men Arm Themselves.

The trial was afterward adjourned till 4 P M. of Saturday the 8th inst Before that hour arrived on Saturday many white citizens from the country around Hamburg began to gather in the town, and armed themselves with guns and pistols The militia company in the meanwhile had assembled at their armory in the village and at the hour set for trial the defendants did not appear

At this point it has been stated in despatches and newspapers that the militia officers having defied the authority of the Trial Justice the citizens were called to assist the trial Justice by acting as his posse. Nothing of the kind, in fact, occurred — The militia failed to appear because of their fear of injury at the hands of the armed white men, and the Trial Justice, after formally calling them, took no further steps to cause their presence in his court on account of the excitement and the evidence of an impending conflict.

The Arms of the Colored Militia Demanded.

While affairs were in this condition, there being according to all accounts, from 200 to 300 armed white men from the surrounding country in the town, a demand was made by the whites for the surrender to them of the arms of the militia. An hour or two passed in negotiations concerning this demand, the whites informing the militia company that if the arms were not given up in a short time, most of the witnesses say in a half hour, the whites would open fire on the militia. The militia refused to deliver up their arms, saying that the demand was wholly unwarranted and illegal, and that they had reason to fear for their lives if they gave up their arms

The Attack Begins by the Whites

A brisk fire was then opened by the whites upon the building in which the militia were assembled, and soon after one of the attacking party was killed by a shot from the militia in the building A piece of artillery was then upon brought across the bridge from Augusta, loaded with canister, and fired several times at the building in which were the militia. This had the effect to cause the militia to endeavor to make their escape from the rear of the building The town marshal of Hamburg, a colored man, who was living in the building, was instantly shot by the attacking party while thus endeavoring to escape from the building

Colored Men Captured and some of them Shot.

Twenty or twenty-five of the militia were captured by the attacking party and kept under guard for several hours. Finally [illegible] the 9th of July (Sunday) after consultation [illegible] five of the captured colored men were taken out by a mob and shot [illegible] body of their [illegible] [illegible] and three of them probably [illegible]

Attorney General Hoge thus [illegible] reports the main facts of the affair:

Details of the Killing

Six men took Allen Attaway out of the gang. He asked his mother begging for his life, but in vain. He was told to turn round, and was shot to death by the crowd.

David Phillips was next taken out and was similarly killed. Pompey Curry was next called out. He recognized among the bystanders Henry Getzen and Dr. Pierce. Butler called on them to keep the other men from killing him He ran and was shot as he ran, one bullet striking him on the leg below the knee Afterward Albert Mynlart, Moses Parks and Hampton Stevens were killed Stevens did not belong to the company

The Attorney-General's Comments.

The Attorney-General, who has personally visited Hamburg thus concludes his official report to me

Making due allowance for errors in minor details, the facts show that the demand on the militia to give up their arms was made by persons without lawful authority to enforce such demand, or to receive the arms had they been surrendered, that the attack on the militia to compel a compliance with this demand was without justification or excuse, and that after there had been some twenty or twenty-five prisoners captured and completely in the power of their captors, and without means of making further resistance, five of them were deliberately shot to death and three more severely wounded

A Dark Picture of Human Cruelty

Such was the affair at Hamburg If you can find words to characterize its atrocity and barbarism the triviality of the causes and the murderous and inhuman spirit which marked it in all its stages your power of language exceeds mine It presents a darker picture of human cruelty than the slaughter of Custer and his soldiers for they were shot in open battle The victims at Hamburg were murdered in cold blood after they had surrendered and were utterly defenceless No occasion existed for causing the presence of a single armed citizen on the day of the massacre No violence was offered or threatened to any one It is indeed said, as usual, that the niggers were impudent' but the evidence shows that all the actual physical aggression was on the part of the whites; that they made a demand which they had no right to make, and when that demand was refused as it should have been, they proceeded to enforce it by arms, and crowned their success in enforcing their demands by brutal murders

A Shameful Deed

Shame and disgust must fill the breast of every man who respects his race or human nature as he reads the tale To me, in my official capacity, wherein, as you will testify, I have done my utmost at no little risk of personal and political detraction from my political friends to remove abuses and restore good government and harmony to our people The occurrence of such an appalling example of human passion and depravity comes as a deep mortification and discouragement What hope can we have when such a cruel and bloodthirsty spirit waits in our midst for its hour of gratification? Is our civilization so shallow—is our race so wantonly cruel? Such acts call for condemnation and punishment for condemnation is a bloody blot on the record of your race and mine—as a cruel affront to a race whose long suffering, patient forbearance challenges the admiration and gratitude of the world—as a shameful dishonor to the name of South Carolina—for punishment as a violation of the laws of the State and a wanton blow at the peace and happiness of our State

I am glad to testify to the horror which this event has excited among many here who have not been wont to heartily condemn many of the past bloody occurrences of the South Nothing however short of condign and ample punishment can discharge the obligation of society and our State toward the authors of this causeless and cruel massacre

Very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,
D H CHAMBERLAIN
Governor of South Carolina

In spite of the reported harmony between Tilden and Hendricks, the New York Tribune says that the most generally accepted version is that an agreement on the financial question was not reached For evidence of this the delay in the publication of the letters of acceptance is cited

The following Approved Testimonial will Speak for Itself

BOSTON, March 28, 1876.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.

Dear Sir—A few days after the 4th of July last I got my leg hurt by a fellow workman letting a plank fall, which struck me on the knee. For four months following I was under the treatment of the physicians at the Dispensary, at the end of which time they told me they could do nothing more for me and that I must go to the hospital and have my leg amputated above the knee. I was removed to the hospital, and lay there ten weeks under the treatment of the best skill the hospital afforded, and no pen can describe the great suffering I endured. My leg was swollen to nearly the size of my body, and all the surface of my knee turned black, and I was told that my knee was so diseased as to render it impossible to save my leg, and unless it was amputated soon I would die. When I first went to the hospital I raised such an objection to the amputation of my leg they consented to try one alternative, which was to cut out all the diseased flesh and replace it with sound flesh from the other leg. They did cut six pieces from my well leg and place it where the diseased flesh had been removed, but the bone was so much diseased that this experiment proved a failure, and I was removed to my home in a hopeless condition. Other physicians were then employed, until all the money which I had saved from my earnings had been expended, and everything else under the sun had been done, doctors' bills until my family was in destitute condition, with no hope for my self except relief by death. At this time Mr. Hill, the police officer of my street, called in to see me, and, after rendering pecuniary assistance to my family, brought some VEGETINE for me, urging me to give it a faithful trial, saying what those two bottles were for one he would see that I had some more. After I had been taking the VEGETINE three day the ulcers in my knee commenced to discharge, and I soon began to describe the frightful quantity that was discharged during the following eight days, and though previously I had suffered indescribable pain, rendering sleep impossible, after taking the VEGETINE three days the pain of left me and my whole complaint seemed to be pouring out of me with this corrupted matter. The VEGETINE was not only forcing disease from me but it gave me strength from day to day. When I commenced on the fourth bottle of VEGETINE the swelling had all left my leg, and the sore which covered the whole surface of my knee commenced to heal next to the bone. I now on the sixth bottle, the sore is entirely healed, and my health so improved as to enable me to walk all over town. The VEGETINE has saved my life. It has cured my leg and restored me to health; my knee bears the marks of my great suffering, and it will always stand my lasting testimony to show the proof of what time good need I can make done for me.

I am, dear sir, very gratefully,

JOHN WELCH, Concord street.

The Policeman's Statement

The above statement is true. I procured the VEGETINE for him, and carefully observed his condition from the time he commenced to use it until he was cured.

WM. B. HILL, Police Officer, Station 4, Boston, Mass.

Pain and Disease.

Can we expect to enjoy good health when bad or corrupt humors circulate with the blood, causing pain and disease, and these humors being deposited through the entire body, produce tubercles, ulcerations, ulcers, indigestion, costiveness, headache, neuralgia, rheumatism and numerous other complaints. Remove the cause by taking VEGETINE, the most reliable remedy for cleansing and purifying the blood.

First Dose on a Boston Police Officer.

BOSTON, Nov 13, 1871

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.

Dear Sir—In the spring of 1870 I was stricken down with fever, which laid a long and almost hopeless run. The best medical advice being in attendance, I was taken through the fever; but it left me terribly reduced and weak, with excruciating pains in my side, back and hips. I was completely prostrated with Kidney complaint, and no medicine seemed to reach my case.

In this condition I was persuaded to try VEGETINE by a friend whom it cured of the same disease, and it seemed as though I could feel the effect of the first dose through my whole system, and from that moment I began to mend, gradually growing better from day to day, and I followed on with the VEGETINE until it completely restored me to health, since which time I have been able to perform my duties as a police officer, enjoying good health, and there is no doubt about the great value of VEGETINE in Kidney Complaint and similar diseases. I am, sir, respectfully,

LAFAYETTE FORD, 584 Bow Iray.

THE "LOST ART" RECOVERED.

Galen, the most celebrated physician, flourished in the second century. His theory was that roots and herbs properly compounded, have Nature's remedy. His cures were so marvellous that he was accused of magic. His mighty skill and success attended his enemies, and his opinions held sway as the medical world for centuries, until the art of compounding vegetable remedies was gradually lost in the clattering loom of the middle ages, and poisonous mineral mixtures took its place. But the clouds are breaking in our day, and the almost magical virtues of VEGETINE, joyfully attested by thousands, stamp it as a true Galenical compound, and a blood-purifier and health-restorer probably has not an equal since the days of Galen himself.

SCROFULOUS HUMOR

Breaking through the Skin on all parts of the Body

A Hopeless Sufferer Cured by Vegetine.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.

Dear Sir—Thinking that a statement of my case may induce some one suffering from scrofula to try a remedy so justly entitled to the following, which I cheerfully turn off my own free will.

I have been afflicted with scrofulous humor from my birth until at time every part of my body, and it was decided advisable to have my hair shaved, but they were obliged to cut it off with embroidery scissors, as the razor was so sore. I could not be shaved. After I had tried in heading the sores on the outside, they broke out on the inside causing me great pain. There have been times when the sore set on my hands was all run together; the pain was intense, and no pen can describe the great suffering I have endured.

About three years ago all kinds of kerne made their appearance on the roots of my neck, and in the right eye into quite large tumor, and nothing which we could have would remove them. My wife's attention was called to a certain is humor that I seemed ready to burst through the skin in any parts of my body, and I was in a terrible weak and feeble condition. The tumors on my neck had grown to such a size and shape that we hardly knew in that hopeless condition I was, until a friend to try the VEGETINE, and I at once commenced taking it, and after I had used it a short time the tumors commenced discharging, and I do not think I overestimate the quantity from each tumor when I say that a good sized teacupful of corruption ran out, after which they commenced to heal up and disappear, and now my neck is as smooth and free from bunches as my hand.

I believe the VEGETINE has entirely cleansed every taint of scrofula from my system, and I feel free to give this statement published, so that sufferers may find relief, as they surely will do, if they try the VEGETINE.

It will afford me pleasure to give any further information relative to the case to any one who will call or address me. ALFRED SHIELDS,

Nov 11th, 1874. Noank, Conn

UNSOLICITED EVIDENCE.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., May 14 1872

MR. H. R. STEVENS Dear Sir—My daughter has been out of health for about two years. About a year ago she had a tumor come on her side which is very painful.

I saw Vegetine advertised in the Farmer, and sent to Bangor and got two bottles. She is now taking the second bottle, and her health is much improved, and the tumor is going away as fast as it came. Every one in this vicinity knows what Vegetine has done for my daughter, and I take every opportunity to recommend it to those who are not aware of its great value. Very respectfully,

MRS. SUSAN C. RANDALL.

Every One Speaks Favorably.

EAST MARSHFIELD, Mass., Aug. 31, 1870.

MR. STEVENS Dear Sir—I have been troubled with Canker from childhood, causing my mouth to be so sore at times that I was unable to eat. Have taken many preparations, but with no effect until I tried your Vegetine. After taking a few doses I found it relieved the soreness at the stomach that always accompanies Canker humor, and by the time I had taken the third bottle my mouth was entirely cured. Have not been troubled with it since that time, which is eight months ago. I have recommended it to several of my acquaintances, as I every one speaks favorably of its good effect.

Yours truly, P. S. SHERMAN.

VEGETINE extends its influence into every part of the human organism, commencing with its foundation, correcting diseased action and restoring vital powers, creating a healthy circulation, and purification of the blood driving out disease, and leaving Nature to perform its allotted task.

District Court of the United States, District of Maine.

In the matter of JOHN MALONEY, Bankrupt.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

This is to give notice that a petition has been presented to the Court, this 11th day of July, 1876, by John Maloney, of Ellsworth, a Bankrupt, praying that he may be decreed to have a full discharge from all his debts, individual and copartnership, provable under the Bankrupt Act, and upon reading said petition,

It is ordered by the Court that a hearing be had upon the same, on the first Monday of August, A. D. 1876, before the Court in Portland, in said District, at 10 o'clock, A. M., and that the second meeting of the creditors of said Bankrupt, be held before Charles Hamlin, Esq., Register, on the 27th day of July, 1876, and the third meeting of the same on the 27th day of July, 1876, and that notice thereof be published in the Bangor Daily Whig and Courier and the Eastern American, newspapers printed in said District, once a week for three successive weeks, and once in the Weekly Bangor Courier, the last publication to be thirty days at least before the day of hearing, and that all creditors who have proved their debts and other persons in interest, may appear at said time and place, and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted.

WM. P. PREBLE,

Clerk of District Court for said District.

Judgment of the Public.

During the past five years the public have carefully observed the wonderful cures accomplished from the use of VEGETINE. From its use many have testified in the public prints, while others, in the privacy of their homes, have spoken of the great benefit received from the use of VEGETINE. Some have written us letters, others have called on us personally, while others have stated to their friends and neighbors the great benefit they have received from the use of VEGETINE. In all these cases the testimony in favor of VEGETINE has been so decidedly in its favor, and so many have been benefited by its use, that we feel it a duty we owe to the public to place the facts before them, that they may know where to find a medicine which is doing so much good. We do not ask you to take our word for what we say, but we ask you to inquire of your neighbors, your druggist, your minister, your clergyman, your postmaster, your merchant, your mechanic, your
